STATUE OF COLUMBUS

Memorial to Be Erected on Union Station Plaza.

ARTISTS IN COMPETITION

Total of $20,000 to Be Awarded for Accepted Design.

MONUMENT TO COST $250,000

Within the next year or two at least a dozen monuments or statues will be erected in public places in the city of Washington. Of the number the Grant memorial, which, in the language of protesters against the site, is to be "concealed in the sunken Botanic Garden," is undoubtedly the most important in the matter of size and cost. Congress has provided $250,000 for that memorial. The next largest available appropriation of the kind is that for the memorial to Christopher Columbus, amounting to $100,000. No appropriation for any other monument authorized by Congress exceeds $50,000.

The Columbus memorial will be erected on the plaza in front of the Union station at the junction of Massachusetts and Delaware avenues. In order that the memorial shall be in complete harmony with the architectural treatment of the station and the plaza the Columbus commission has accepted a design, so far as architectural features are concerned, prepared by Mr. Burnham and other architects of the Union station, and has invited several well-known artists to submit designs only the sculptural treatment of the memorial. The general scheme of the accepted design is a semi-circular fountain with the figure of Columbus standing on the prow of the caravel facing the Capitol. The fountain will have an extreme width of sixty-four feet and will have a large recumbent lion at each side east and west.

Decided by Competition.

The sculptural features of the memorial will be decided by competition, the terms of which have just been announced by the commission. Although this competition is open to all artists who choose to enter, six sculptors were specially invited by the commission to submit designs. These artists are Augustin Querol of Spain, Augustus Revilla and Cesare Zocchi of Italy and F. W. MacMonnies, Daniel C. French and Lorado Taft of the United States.

In the circular to competitors it is stated that although the sizes of the architectural features of the memorial are to be regarded as fixed, on the other hand, the size, outline and attitude of the figure of Columbus, as well as size and treatment of ship motive, are left entirely to the discretion of the sculptor. It is stated that the material in the entire Columbus memorial and its approaches, with the exception of the sculpture, will be of light granite. The sculpture, however, it is stated, may be all in granite or all in bronze or part granite and part bronze, at the discretion of the sculptor.

Outline of Design.

"The subject of the competition," says the circular, "will be a figure of Columbus standing above a sculptured motive suggesting the ship, this motive to be treated with or without accessory elements suggesting Navigation and with or without figures typifying Victory or the Spirit of Discovery. The drawings indicate the location of the proposed memorial in relation to the Union station and plaza and make clear the design, which for the purpose of this competition, is to be considered fixed in its general lines. The figure of Columbus may be free-standing or may be cut in relief on the face of the stonework. Similarly, the size and projection of the ship motive will be at the discretion of the sculptor. The ship prow will be near the center of the upper basin and form the starting point of a fountain motive, in which water will be used in such subordinate manner that its absence during the winter will not interfere with a complete effect."

It is prescribed also that each competitor shall submit a sketch model in plaster or scale of one inch to the foot. The models are to be delivered to the commission in this city on or before December 1st next. The competition will be held at the Union station, and the models are to be submitted to the members of the Columbus memorial commission, who will view them, and after calling on the sculptors to explain their designs, will select three designs, classifying them as first, second and third, according to merit, reserving always the right to reject any and all designs if, in their judgment, none is sufficiently meritorious.

Rules to Govern.

The author of the design classed first will be adjudged the successful competitor and will be awarded the execution of all sculptured features, with the understanding that the whole work shall be carried out under the architects of the Union station, acting as advisers to the Columbus memorial commission. The authors of the designs, classed second and third, respectively, will each receive a cash prize of $500.

The successful competitor will receive a total sum of $250,000, payable in installments according to the completion and acceptance of the various models. The cost of providing all the necessary materials, including bronze, granite, carvings of the same, and the cost of erecting the monument and the setting in place and the cost of casting the bronze portions (if any) will be paid by the Columbus memorial commission for which there will be available about $70,000.

The Columbus memorial commission consists of Senator G. P. Wetmore of Rhode Island, James T. McCleary of Minnesota, second assistant postmaster general, Mr. Elihu Root, Secretary of State, Mr. William H. Taft, Secretary of War, and Mr. Edward L. Hearne, supreme knight of the Order of the Knights of Columbus. Mr. Fred W. Carpenter is president of the commission, and Col. C. S. Bromwell, U. S. A., is the executive and disbursing officer.

TO WAGE WAR ON FLIES.

Health Officer of District Preparing for Campaign.

The health officer of the District is preparing for a wage war on flies. He believes the latter to be most dangerous disease germ distributors, and declares that every precaution should be taken to keep them from houses and from food. According to the health officer, screens are the only safe means of keeping flies from entering houses. He has recommended to the Commissioners that all persons who sell food and confections, and have the same exposed, be compelled to either screen the same or else provide a motor fan, in order to keep away flies. The health department will endeavor to curb breeding of flies in the city, and the coming summer by renovating places where the pests thrive. Stating refuse is considered to be the most prolific source for propagation of flies, and consequently an ordinance has been put into effect by the Commissioners making it necessary for persons keeping horses to keep water and fly traps in the stalls, and to be covered and must be emptied twice each week, so as to prevent the breeding of flies, which requires a period of from ten to fifteen days.

The health officer is of the opinion that a stable in which a horse is kept, if not properly cared for, can breed enough flies to overrun an entire neighborhood.

BETTER PENAL LAWS

Amendment Advocated by Chamber of Commerce.

CONSIDERATION OF REPORT

Resolution Adopted Condemning Race Track Gambling.

POSITION ON PROHIBITION

Extension of Hospitality to Visitors From Oklahoma—Tribute to the Press.

The Washington Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting in the Executive building last night, adopted resolutions condemning race track gambling, reasserting its position as outlined in the Harvey resolutions adopted at its last meeting with reference to prohibition and changes in the liquor laws; directing its committee on law and legislation to take action looking to an improvement of the penal laws and correctional methods; endorsing the board of education's request for a school architect; incidentally condemning the insubordinate conduct of the District jail, tendering the hospitality of the chamber to the Virginia Editorial Association at its forthcoming meeting, and concerning other matters of more or less interest. The meeting was called to order at 8:15 o'clock.

Informal reports were made from several committees, indicating progress in the matters under consideration. Mr. Chapin Brown stated that a bill embodying the main points outlined at a previous meeting with reference to a municipal court had been recommended by the Commissioners and that the matter of the proper committees of both houses of Congress. Mr. Percival M. Brown intimated that there is little evidence of progress in the matter of the Capitol in the matter of legislation affecting the Anacostia flats.

Capt. James F. Oyster drew attention to the forthcoming visit of the representative party of visitors from Tulsa, Okla., and on behalf of the executive committee, which had already appointed a subcommittee, consisting of Messrs. Chapin Brown, Scott Bone and John D. Albert to arrange details, recommended that a reception be tendered the Tulsa delegates at the chamber's room next Friday evening, when speakers who will be helpful to the visitors along the lines of their inquiries would be expected to address them. This motion was adopted.

Correction of the Record.

At this point Mr. Topham took occasion to state that the report that the Harvey resolutions on prohibition had been unanimously adopted at a former meeting was incorrect. He offered a resolution, which Mr. Topham declared was simply intended to undo what the chamber had already done in the matter. After some discussion the Topham resolution was laid upon the table.

In the course of the discussion Mr. John H. Magruder paid a tribute to the courtesy and accuracy of the press, and remarked that the newspapers are "generally correct in everything."

A resolution was then offered by Mr. Allen D. Albert, setting forth that inasmuch as the law of the District of Columbia does not provide for a probation system for first offenders, except through the Juvenile Court, or for suspended sentence for any offender, or for an indeterminate sentence, and that inasmuch as the present District of Columbia law is notoriously unsuited to the needs of this jurisdiction, the committee on municipal legislation be urged to inquire if the existing law cannot be bettered at this session of Congress.

In support of the resolution Mr. Albert remarked upon the conditions prevailing at the District Jail, from a sanitary standpoint, including the crowding into a cell, five by seven feet in size, of three prisoners, two to sleep on the floor and one in a cot. He argued for not only the humanity of the probation system, but in favor of its economic advantages, and urged the chamber to put itself on record in the matter. Some discussion followed, which was participated in by Messrs. Conrad H. Syme, Siddons, Lambert, Magruder and others, after which the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Favors School Architect.

Mr. Conrad H. Syme suggested that the chamber put itself on record as endorsing the request of the board of education for a school architect to look after the construction and repairs of school buildings, and in discussing the subject alluded to the fact that the Board of Trade is already on record as favoring the project. The motion was carried without audible objection.

The chamber then, upon the suggestion of Mr. R. P. Andrews, framed in a motion by Mr. D. Kaufman, tendered the use of its rooms to the Virginia Editorial Association during its forthcoming convention in this city. Mr. W. S. Hoge's inquiry as to whether the chamber could do something to assist in securing a railroad station for South Washington was referred to the executive committee.

A resolution of Mr. John L. Weaver, expressing as the sense of the Chamber of Commerce "that the directors consider the expediency of providing a permanent paid secretary," was referred to the board of directors, after an address, in which Mr. Weaver asserted that in order to build up a beautiful city it is necessary to draw to its population a class of citizens to supply the missing link between the government employee and the rich transient resident.

By unanimous consent the Hoge resolutions in relation to race-track gambling, together with the report of the Chamber of Commerce "that the directors consider the expediency of providing a permanent paid secretary," was referred to the board of directors, after an address, in which Mr. Weaver asserted that in order to build up a beautiful city it is necessary to draw to its population a class of citizens to supply the missing link between the government employee and the rich transient resident.
